

ABSTRACT

Methods and ferroelectric devices are presented, in which pulses are selectively applied to ferroelectric memory cell wordlines to discharge cell storage node disturbances while the cell plateline and the associated bitline are 5 held at substantially the same voltage.